Encuentros Leadership & Education Conference

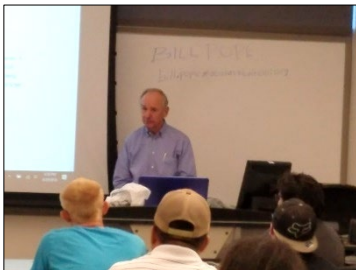

Our inaugural Encuentros Leadership and Education Conference took place on Saturday, October 6th, at Cuyamaca College. To assist us in hosting this event we partnered with Encuentros Leadership, a non-profit organization which for the past 15 years has been based out of North County San Diego. The conference was specifically aimed at young Latino boys in middle or high school and their parents from our local community and we are proud to say Cuyamaca is the first community college to host an Encuentros conference outside of North County San Diego. The conference participants were able to experience what makes Cuyamaca College's programs and departments awesome as they showcased what they offer students and parents during the College and Career Expo. We are looking forward to improving our efforts with our second Encuentros Leadership and Education Conference coming in Fall 2019.

BUS 111 Entrepreneurship & GD 225 Digital Illustration Class Collaboration

It has been an exciting first couple of weeks in Business 111 Entrepreneurship. Our first guest speaker, Bill Pope of the SBA SCORE program, laid out the basics in seeking assistance from the SBA and the SCORE Mentoring Program. Our students were enthusiastic and well prepared. If you are interested in what SCORE has to offer check out this site: <https://sandiego.score.org/>. Cuyamaca's Graphic Design and Entrepreneurship students paired up to participate in a joint class assignment – the "Perfect Logo". Both classes will work together over the semester to create a business logo for each Entrepreneurship student's concept. The Graphic Design students receive an opportunity to improve their business negotiation skills for the art business by working with a client and meeting their needs. The instructors for this project are DanaFitch, Business 111, and Lora Redwine, Graphic Design 225.

This year there was live music, relaxation tables with arts and crafts, healthy refreshments from Sahara Restaurant, and numerous community representatives including mental health counselors from Family Health Centers, Veterans Services, and Kickstart/Pathways Behavioral Health Services.

Institute for Educators on Teaching Economics & Personal Finance

The San Diego Center for Economic Education at Cuyamaca College co-hosted a three-day institute on economics and personal finance for high school and community college instructors at the University of San Diego during June 2018. Thirty-five teachers from around the United States attended the institute. The institute, Building Blocks for Economic Education, was organized by the San Diego Center for Economic Education at Cuyamaca College in partnership with the California Council on Economic Education and in association with the Federal Reserve banks of Atlanta, Dallas, San Francisco and St. Louis. The educators who attended learned about effective interactive lessons, emphasizing infographics and utilizing other tools that can meet any teaching style pertaining to economics and personal finance. The San Diego Center for Economic Education at Cuyamaca College trains scores of elementary and high school teachers each year on the best methods for teaching economics in the classroom and how to infuse economics into other subject areas such as history or geography. There are six centers for economic education in California; the San Diego Center for Economic Education is the only one that is hosted by a community college.
