

DISTRICT SERVICES PLANNING RETREAT: WHAT'S ON YOUR PLAYLIST?

District Services employees looked to the past and to the future in the annual District Services planning retreat held April 5 at the Ronald Reagan Center in El Cajon. District Services offices were closed so all employees could participate in the retreat. In previous years, the event had been held in July, but it was moved up to April to better align with the colleges' planning cycle.

Chancellor Cindy L. Miles recognized the 20 new District Services employees hired in the last year, and listed some of the major accomplishments by District Services departments in 2018-19. Each department reviewed their goals and activities for 2018-19, and updated their plans in Trac-Dat. New goals and activities were then created for 2019-20.

Professional Development Specialist Nashona

Seals led an activity asking employees to create their own musical playlist, including the songs they would play in the morning, when they needed a pick-me-up, and in the evening. Professional Development Specialist Anaid Northcraft supplied the materials so that each department could make a poster indicating their goals for the year. Employees were urged to hang the poster in their department as a reminder of the goals they have set.
